Elizabeth R. Bageant

Research Support Specialist III
Charles H Dyson School · Cornell University · Ithaca, New York
✉ erb32@cornell.edu   📞 += 540 398 7131   🌐 cornell.edu | Updated: Feb. 19, 2021

Education

Cornell University, M.S. Agricultural Economics   2014

Cornell University, B.S. Development Sociology   2010

Research Roles

Cornell University, Charles H. Dyson School of Applied Economics and Management

Research Support Specialist III   2014-present

- Implementation and management of policy-relevant research related to agriculture, nutrition and climate.

- Extensive experience evaluating scientific evidence on policy effectiveness and unintended consequences. Data collection, analysis and synthesis of existing information.

- Proposal and budget development, project management, and communication for externally funded multilateral research and capacity development initiatives

- Authorship of published research outputs for academic and policy audiences

- Program management, intensive mentorship and training of early-career African Agricultural Economists as part of STAARS/STAAARS+ Fellowship Program.

- Statistical analysis of complex data.

Graduate Research Assistant   2013-2014

- Designed and implemented mixed methods study of gender and uptake of Index-Based Livestock Insurance in Southern Ethiopian collaboration with the International Livestock Research Institute

- Assist with household panel survey question design, survey data collection, enumerator training and supervision.

- Econometric panel analysis of household panel data using Stata

- Qualitative data collection and analysis designed to complement and deepen quantitative inference

Evaluation Plan Designer   2013

Publications

Journal Articles

Working Papers

Presentations